THE BEAUTY OF GENUINE LEATHER

We've always embraced the rich authenticity of full-grain leather. As a natural material, leather often features unique markings such as surface scratches, stretch marks, branding, insect marks, small holes, and subtle colour variations. Such characteristics are the traits of authentic leather, telling the unique story of each hide.

While we take care to place these natural characteristics on sections of our furniture that are out of sight, some may be visible due to the size and nature of each piece. We're confident that you'll appreciate the rich detail and lasting appeal of our leather designs as they develop a desirable patina over time, lightening naturally with age.
